Food

Hakkasan

Housed in the illustrious Bund 18 building, Hakkasan Shanghai is set against Shanghai's most iconic Bund-view. The menu, devised by Michelin-starred chef Tong Chee Hwee, has a strong Chinese identity and uses locally sourced ingredients to create Hakkasan's renowned signature dishes such as cod with Champagne and Chinese honey, crispy duck salad and jasmine tea smoked Wagyu. Hakkasan was founded in London in 2001 and has since become a distinguished global restaurant with locations in India, the Middle East, U.S. and now China.

Shopping

Taobao Mall

Taobao Mall (also known as Han City) is one of the best-known bargain markets in Shanghai. Do note that this mall has no affiliation with the famous Chinese website of the same name. With over 300 stores spaced out within the building, test your bargaining skills with the shop owners selling clothes, purses, sunglasses, shoes, watches and knick-knacks. Many of the stores from the old Xiangyang Road Market moved to Taobao Mall upon its closing in 2006, which means you'll be getting great knock-offs at reasonable prices.
